

Biography – Philip Lane

Philip Lane is Professor of International Macroeconomics at TCD (a personal chair). Previously, he was Associate Professor (2000-2004) and Lecturer (1997-2000) in Economics at TCD and Assistant Professor of Economics and International Affairs at Columbia University (1995-1997). Since 2002, he is also Director of the Institute for International Integration Studies (IIIS) at TCD. He is also a Research Fellow of the Centre for Economic Policy Research (CEPR) and a member of the organizing committee for its Macroeconomics of Global Interdependence (MGI) working group. He is an International Research Fellow of the Kiel Institute for World Economics and a regular visiting scholar and consultant at the International Monetary Fund, World Bank, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and several central banks in Europe. He holds a PhD (1995) and AM (1993) in Economics from Harvard University and a BA (Mod) in Economics from Trinity College Dublin (1991).

He is managing editor of the Economic and Social Review and is an editorial board member of the Journal of Economic Perspectives, Journal of the European Economic Association, International Journal of Central Banking, Open Economies Review and Economics and Politics.

He has published over thirty refereed articles, including in major journals such as the American Economic Review, Review of Economics and Statistics, Journal of International Economics, Economic Journal, Economic Policy, NBER Macroeconomics Annual and Oxford Economic Papers. His research interests include financial globalization, open-economy macroeconomic models, exchange rates, European monetary union and macroeconomic policy.

During the 2004-2005, he was a Government of Ireland Research Fellow. He was awarded a Lamfalussy Fellowship by the European Central Bank in 2004. In 2001, he was the inaugural recipient of the German Bernacer Award in Monetary Economics, as the “most outstanding young monetary economist in the eurozone”. In 1998, he was awarded the Barrington Medal by the Social and Statistical Inquiry Society of Ireland. During 2000-2004, he was the scientific coordinator of a European Union Research Training Network “Analysis of International Capital Markets: Understanding Europe’s Role in the Global Economy.”