

Andrew Watt, born 1963 in the UK, first degree in languages and economics, Surrey University, Political science studies, Free University of Berlin, MA in Advanced European Studies from the University of Basle, Switzerland. At the ETUI since August 2000, initially researcher and managing editor of ETUI Quarterly TRANSFER; since 2002 senior researcher in employment policy. 1990-2000 freelance collaboration with German Institute of Economic Research (DIW), Social Science Center Berlin (WZB) and other research institutes.

Andrew Watt

Senior Researcher, Employment Policy

European Trade Union Institute

for Research, Education and Health & Safety (ETUI-REHS) Research

Department 5, Blvd. du Roi Albert II B-1210 Brussels

+32-2-224.05.12 (direct line)

+32-2-224.04.70 (reception)

+32-2-224.05.02 (fax)

<http://www.etui-rehs.org/research>

European Economic and Employment Policy Brief (EEEPB) http://www.etui-rehs.org/employment_and_economic_policies/publications/european_economic_and_employment_policy_brief

Send me an email to receive the EEEPB by mail.

The State of Working Europe 2004

Downloadable from

www.thestateofworkingeurope.org

4/2003 issue of TRANSFER on:

'EMU five years on' <http://www.etui-rehs.org/publications/transfer/2003/4>

2003 emu five years on